The C-wing of the original Stevenson Hall, added in 1957, remains today as a freshmen men's residence hall.

4. Soldiers and Sailors Intramural Center

Built in 1919, this building was built as a memorial to the soldiers and sailors of Knox County. Some may remember it as the Dramatic Arts Center (DAC). Remodeled in 1965 and 1990, it served as an intramural center until 2001. Now the building is closed.

5. Spiritual Life/Experiential Learning Center

Originally known as the maintenance building, it was built in 1938 and equipped by a gift from the estate of Robert Norton of New Albany, Ind. The first floor serves as an office for the College Minister and campus religious organizations; Experiential learning is on the second floor.

6. Centennial Hall

Formerly known as the Classroom Building, this hall was built in 1907. The three-level building was the home of Union's dining hall for 83 years. It currently serves as classroom space for the departments of Business, English, and the Special Programs Office.

7. Weeks Memorial Library & Townsend Annex

Opened in 1941, the library is named for Abigail Weeks, a professor at Union for nearly 30 years. The addition to the library opened in the fall of 1987 and was named after Milton Townsend, a 1948 graduate of Union. He returned to Union in 1951 as director of public relations and alumni affairs, later serving as vice president for college relations and development.

8. Speed Hall

Named for Fanny Speed, the building was first occupied in the 1905-06 school year and is the oldest building on campus. Renovated in 2000, it houses the offices of Admission, Advancement, Business Affairs, Financial Aid, and the Registrar.

9. Pfeiffer Residence Hall

Currently serving as the residence hall for first-year students, the building was constructed in 1942 with a new wing added in 1960. The original wing was a gift from the estate of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Pfeiffer of New York City.

10. Edward H. Black Technology Center

Scheduled to open in January 2003, the new tech center connects to the library via a second-floor glassed-in bridge. It will house computer and training labs, an audio/video studio, a College-operated cable channel and Information Services offices.
